

I believe the current rule changes reducing restriction of broadcast ownership are not in the public interest. The FCC should have public hearings and take additional time to decide the issue. The current court ruling is not definitive and could be overruled.